2. We note the concurrence of the twenty-sixth session of ESCWA in 2010 with the United Nations International Year of Youth: Dialogue and Mutual Understanding;⁴

⁴ General Assembly resolution 64/134 of 18 December 2009.
3. We acknowledge the importance of the United Nations resolutions on youth, the first of which was the Declaration on the Promotion among Youth of the Ideals of Peace, Mutual Respect and Understanding between Peoples, adopted in 1965.5

4. We recall the priority areas identified in WPAY, adopted by the General Assembly in its resolutions 50/81 of 14 December 1995 and 62/126 of 18 December 2007 and reaffirmed in subsequent resolutions, the most recent of which is resolution 64/130 of 18 December 2009;

5. We note with appreciation the achievements recorded in the Western Asia region during the last three decades, the first of which was the Regional Plan of Action on Youth, prepared in 1983 by the then Economic Commission for Western Asia, and which also include national youth strategies, the integration of essential youth needs into the objectives of national plans, and the adoption of the issue of youth participation as a means for the design and implementation of development programmes;

6. We express our appreciation of the value of youth as an essential agent in changing the present and shaping the future, and stress the importance of according priority to and providing care for youth;

We welcome the fifth World Youth Congress to be held in Istanbul, from 31 July to 13 August 2010, and the initiative of the Government of Mexico to host a World Youth Conference in Mexico City from 24 to 27 August 2010, both of which will focus on the issue of youth and development in the context of the Millennium Development Goals.

We renew our commitment to WPAY through the following:

1. Activating the response to WPAY by using the goals and targets proposed in the reports of the Secretary-General6 as a means to facilitate the formulation and monitoring of national youth policies;

2. Developing national youth policies in member countries which have not yet incorporated youth into their development programmes, and involving youth in the formulation of a vision based on rights and duties, reflecting their national youth development approach;

5 General Assembly resolution 2037 (XX) of 7 December 1965.

3. Reviewing existing youth policies and strategies with a view to activating them within the context of WPAY, pursuing efforts towards developing sources of self-financing to secure the resources needed for policy implementation and supplementing them from other national, regional and international sources;

4. Adopting a human rights-based approach in formulating national youth policies, engaging all social, economic and political actors in supporting and protecting the rights of youth, and changing the prevailing perceptions of youth, including youth with special needs, from mere receivers of grants or services to people possessing rights;

5. Resorting to the 15 priority areas of WPAY as a basic framework for identifying national priorities and requirements, discussing them through governmental institutions, civil society organizations and private sector organizations, with the participation of young people, and achieving a societal consensus in that regard in order to ensure the commitment of all parties;

6. Allocating part of the statistical work programme in member countries to monitor youth development and pursuing the development of a list of indicators needed for that purpose, as a preliminary list subject to revision and which could be tailored to the priorities of each country;

7. Exerting the utmost effort to establish a high-level national mechanism, in countries where such a mechanism is currently lacking, to undertake coordination between ministries and parties concerned with youth issues, defining the functions of each party, enhancing their competence and setting cooperation frameworks allowing national youth policy to cover all sectors, to be implemented through national partnership between non-governmental organizations, governmental offices, ministries and other major stakeholders.

Discussions concluded with a number of recommendations, as follows:

   (1) To stress the importance of ESCWA’s commitment to the results-based management approach, in order to assess the effectiveness of each of the seven sub-programmes, based on specific indicators and targets, and using a methodology that measures achievements, shortcomings and possible improvements in future programmes;

   (2) To adopt an evolutionary approach to evaluation, combining self-assessment and external evaluation by an independent body. In addition, member countries should be involved as partners in the planning and implementation of field programmes and projects as well as beneficiaries concerned by their outcomes and implications, so that their role is not limited to being informed of the evaluation process;
(3) To stress the importance of cooperation between the United Nations Information Centre (UNIC) at ESCWA and media in member countries, in order to increase awareness of the Commission’s role and its developmental role in building capacities and advancing the development process;

(6) To strengthen partnerships among governments, local governing bodies, civil society organizations and the private sector in local development projects, allowing them to be part of the planning, implementation, support and assessment of these projects, so as to reflect the role of ESCWA in providing services to the Governments and peoples of member countries;

(7) To focus on developing informal sectors not covered by official statistics in member countries where statistics on those sectors are not available;

IV. ISSUES FOR CONSIDERATION AND DISCUSSION

A. REQUESTS BY STATES MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS AND/OR ITS SPECIALIZED AGENCIES THAT ARE NOT MEMBERS OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COMMISSION FOR WESTERN ASIA (ESCWA) TO PARTICIPATE AS OBSERVERS IN THE TWENTY-SIXTH SESSION OF THE COMMISSION
(Agenda item 4)

7. Requests to participate as observers in the twenty-sixth session were received from eight States Members of the United Nations that are not members of ESCWA, namely, Belgium, China, France, Islamic Republic of Iran, Netherlands, Somalia, Tunisia and United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. Those requests were approved by the Commission, which received also similar requests from a number of United Nations organizations and bodies. It should be noted that Morocco has permanent observer status at all ESCWA sessions.

B. POLICY ISSUES IN THE ESCWA REGION
(Agenda item 5)

8. The Commission discussed this agenda item at two roundtables. The first addressed national youth policies within the framework of the World Programme of Action for Youth, while the second addressed human and institutional capacity-building.

1. National youth policies within the framework of the World Programme of Action for Youth

9. Following the endorsement of the Technical Committee at its fourth meeting (Beirut, 26-27 January 2010) of the proposal made by the secretariat with respect to the theme for the twenty-sixth session of the Commission, the topic of national youth policies was selected as the main theme of the session.

10. That theme was addressed by the Commission at a ministerial roundtable in view of its relevance to countries of the region, particularly in the light of the proclamation by the United Nations of 2010 as the International Year of Youth: Dialogue and Mutual Understanding.

11. A representative of the secretariat made a presentation on national youth policies within the framework of the World Programme of Action for Youth on the basis of document E/ESCWA/26/4(Part I), which stressed the need to use the World Programme of Action for Youth as a policy framework aimed at continuing practical guidelines for national efforts and international support in the area of youth development. The presentation touched on the regional survey conducted by ESCWA in 2008 on the response of member countries to the World Programme of Action for Youth, which highlighted the need to work towards enhancing effectiveness and expanding the scope of national projects for youth. The presentation noted the importance of addressing youth as a socio-demographic group that has its own needs and that requires the formulation of national policies aimed at empowering youth and providing them with opportunities to realize their potential. It concluded with a summary of the way forward for ESCWA to promote national capacities in the area of formulating national youth policies and plans of action.

12. During the discussion following the presentation, H.E. Ms. Maythaa al-Shamsi, State Minister in the United Arab Emirates, noted that the growing number of young people in the countries of the region, while posing several challenges, provided opportunities for benefiting from the capacities of youth in the development process. She stressed the importance of political commitment to activate the response of member countries to the World Programme of Action for Youth, and the need to draw guidance from the Programme within the framework of the three systems affecting the status of youth in the region, namely, the family, educational institutions and society. She added that the media also played a significant role in youth development.
13. Subsequently, a dialogue was held between a group of Arab young people who were selected from various schools and universities in Lebanon, and ministers participating in the session. The roundtable was directed by Ms. Fadia Kiwan, Professor of Political Science at Saint Joseph University. The discussion addressed the following themes:

(a) Youth and education: The discussion focused on the issue of improving youth education and educational outputs, the importance of bridging the existing divide between different educational levels, harmonization between educational outputs and labour-market needs, and the role of the family during preparation for basic education;

(b) Youth and employment: The discussion addressed the challenges associated with youth employment, including economic difficulties, conflict and wars, emigration, high costs of social services, capital migration and weak infrastructure;

(c) Youth and health: Under this topic, the group of young people presented suggestions for addressing the main problems they face with regard to lifestyle, general health, reproductive health and medical institutions;

(d) Youth participation in decision-making and public life: The discussion addressed the obstacles that hinder the effective participation of youth in decision-making. Ministers stressed the need to identify priority areas requiring change, and to adopt a positive and practical attitude aimed at allowing adaptation to existing challenges;

(e) Youth and globalization: Participants stressed the need to address the main problems faced by young people in the context of globalization and its impact on their countries, to promote cultural exchanges between youth from all countries of the region, and to work towards promoting student exchanges between Arab universities;

(f) Youth and exceptional issues: Participants stressed the need to solve the problem of youth unemployment and to have a common Arab position in addressing the challenges faced by the region and preventing their negative impact on youth.

14. At the conclusion of the roundtable, the secretariat delivered certificates of appreciation to those ESCWA members that had worked on formulating and implementing youth strategies, namely, Bahrain, Jordan and Palestine.

15. During the roundtable, the secretariat distributed a booklet, entitled “Youth Development in the ESCWA Region: Statistical Profiles, National Strategies and Success Stories” (E/ESCWA/SDD/2010/Booklet.1).

2. Human and institutional capacity-building

16. A representative of the secretariat made a presentation on prioritizing institutional development in the ESCWA region: towards a modernized public sector, based on document E/ESCWA/26/4(Part II). The presentation highlighted the correlation between development and public sector modernization. It pointed out that public sector development through institutional and human capacity-building is the major factor that contributes to improving economic and social performance. It highlighted the possibility of applying the new concept of public sector modernization in the ESCWA region and the challenges it is facing. It concluded with a set of recommendations to be taken into consideration in the areas of policy and capacity-building in order to strengthen institutional infrastructure and achieve administrative reform. Recommendations included conducting field surveys in coordination with concerned parties in member countries aimed at identifying development priorities and requirements, and working with member countries on formulating public sector strategies and human capacity-building programmes. The aim is to create effective institutions that can resist crises and mitigate their impact, and assist member countries in terms of enabling the public sector to respond to the needs and aspirations of citizens.

17. Ms. Hiba Khodr of the American University in Beirut presented a paper on the importance of human capacity-development in modernizing the public sector. She noted that achieving national development goals required public sector modernization through administrative reform and that administrative reform required formulating strategies based on the reality of administrative problems and needs. She stressed the importance of human and institutional capacity-building, building institutions, activating their role and strengthening existing institutional structure as the foundations to improving economic and social indicators.

18. Mr. Ibrahim Osman of the Faculty of Business Administration at the American University of Beirut presented a paper on public sector activation: strategies for the ESCWA region, in which he noted the importance of participatory decision-making in which all concerned parties participate and rely on effective evaluation of impact potential risks and possible opportunities. The presentation concluded with a set of recommendations on disseminating official data, achieving sustainable development, consolidating bases for partnership among various parties concerned with the decision-making process and ensuing expected consequences, human capacity-building and promoting public-private cooperation.

C. REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY ON THE ACTIVITIES OF THE COMMISSION
(Agenda item 6)

19. The Commission considered this agenda item, which comprises five sub-items, on the basis of document E/ESCWA/26/5.

21. During the discussion, national delegates stressed the importance of ESCWA in adhering to the results-based management approach in order to assess the effectiveness of each subprogramme by relying on well-defined indicators of achievements, deficiencies and improvement possibilities in future programmes of work. They also stressed the need to enhance coordination among ESCWA divisions as well as the need for participation by member countries in designing plans and conducting follow-up and assessments, thereby ensuring continuing political commitment to the programmes and improving results.

22. Representatives from member countries indicated the importance of making use of the media across the region to inform the public on the role played by ESCWA in building capacities and driving the development process. They emphasized the need to expand the scope of coordination such that it would not be limited to certain government bodies, but rather would include other parties concerned with reporting on the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and international agreements. They also underlined the importance of cooperation between ESCWA and international organizations, and noted that ESCWA was in fact cooperating with specialized United Nations organizations in the implementation of its subprogrammes.

23. Moreover, national delegates stressed the importance of promoting community development and partnerships with local administrative offices in development projects and the need to include marginalized groups in statistics as well as such informal sectors as agriculture. They noted the difficulties encountered by women in Arab countries with respect to participation in public and political life and emphasized the need to support national machineries for the advancement of women and to take measures to facilitate women’s access to decision-making. They also indicated the need to mobilize financial and technical resources to assist countries facing difficulties in achieving MDGs by 2015.
24. In response to the points raised by delegates, the representative of the secretariat affirmed that their comments would be taken into consideration. He pointed out that ESCWA adopted the results-based approach in assessing its programmes and activities and ensured that member countries participated in the early stages of programme planning, assessment and adaptation to new priorities and to the needs of member countries with regard to advisory services and technical assistance in priority areas.

25. With regard to the media, the representative of the secretariat indicated that ESCWA has formulated a communication strategy with member countries, which will be included in the next strategic framework, aimed at promoting cooperation between ESCWA and both national statistical offices and national machineries for the advancement of women in following up on international commitments and conventions on women. The representative of the secretariat also indicated that ESCWA organized various training activities on the usage of international instruments, conventions and standards and on amending national legislation to conform to provisions and requisites thereto.

2. Follow-up to the implementation of the resolutions adopted by the Commission at its twenty-fifth session

26. Under this sub-item, the Commission was presented with document E/ESCWA/26/5(Part II). Representatives of ESCWA divisions summarized the activities undertaken by ESCWA pursuant to the resolutions adopted by the Commission at its twenty-fifth session (Sana’a, 26-29 May 2008). (k) Resolution 291 (XXV). Frequency of the sessions of the Commission and its subsidiary bodies.

27. Commenting on the presentation, a representative from a member country stressed the need to set up a logical approval for following up the implementation of resolutions based on tables that identified accomplishments, ongoing projects and proposed measures to achieve them.

28. The secretariat praised that suggestion, provided that an objective mechanism containing indicators could be set up, which would allow member countries to participate in the follow-up process since a part of the required measures falls under their responsibility.
39. Under this sub-item, the Commission was presented with two documents on technical cooperation activities and regional advisory services undertaken by ESCWA in the biennium 2008-2009, namely: those under the Regular Programme of Technical Cooperation (RPTC) in document (E/ESCWA/26/5(Part III)/A); and those funded by the United Nations Development Account in document (E/ESCWA/26/5(Part III)/B).

40. A representative of the secretariat gave an overview of those activities and services, and pointed out that the aim of RPTC was to assist member countries by providing them, at their request, with policy advice, technical support and capacity-building activities in line with ESCWA areas of expertise, programme of work and expected accomplishments. The representative presented a snapshot of the projects funded by the Development Account where ESCWA acted as a lead agency and the progress made in association with the expected accomplishments envisaged in ESCWA subprogrammes.

41. A representative from a member country noted the need to strike a balance in the advisory services provided by ESCWA to member countries, and suggested the need to prepare a new working method in that area that would incorporate a fast response unit at ESCWA aimed at facilitating timely and effective access to required services.

4. Financial status of the Commission

42. Under this sub-item, the Commission was presented with document E/ESCWA/26/5(Part IV). A representative of the secretariat presented a review of all financial aspects of the Commission programmes, which covered regular budget, extrabudgetary resources, and the ESCWA Trust Fund for Regional Activities.

43. The presentation concluded by calling on member countries, funds and donors to contribute to increasing extrabudgetary resources in order to support ESCWA projects and enable it to meet the increasing demands and needs of member countries.

44. In the course of the discussion, national delegates underscored the need to mobilize and ensure sustainability of additional extrabudgetary resources and enable ESCWA to supplement regular budget resources and acquire sufficient flexibility in order to meet the increasing demands of member countries for advisory services in specialized subjects, which require financial and human resources and the variation of operational activities under its subprogrammes.

45. Delegates stressed the importance of formulating resource mobilization strategies resources that secure extrabudgetary resources for ESCWA, similarly to those in other regional commissions.

5. Reports of the sessions of the subsidiary bodies of ESCWA

46. The Commission was presented with reports of the seven subprogrammes on their sessions which were held between the twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth ministerial sessions, in addition to the reports of the Technical Committee on its meetings held in that same period. Those reports, which include recommendations, topics of discussion, information on the organization of the session and list of participants and documents submitted to it, are listed below:

D. MANAGEMENT ISSUES

(Agenda item 7)

38. The Commission considered this agenda item on the basis of document E/ESCWA/26/6, which comprised two sub-items, namely: streamlining the work of the Commission, and proposed amendments to the programme of work for the biennium 2010-2011.

1. Streamlining the work of the Commission

39. Under this agenda sub-item, the Commission was presented with three documents, namely: lessons learned from the evaluation of the sessions of the Commission and its subsidiary bodies in document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part I)/A; upgrading the ESCWA Centre for Women to a division in document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part I)/B; and upgrading the Section for Emerging and Conflict-Related Issues to a division and establishing an intergovernmental committee on emerging issues and development in times of crisis in document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part I)/C.

(a) Evaluation of the intergovernmental structure of the Commission and its subsidiary bodies

40. The secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part I)/A, which provides a background to the evaluation process undertaken by the secretariat of the conduct of sessions of the Commission and its subsidiary bodies; the consolidated evaluation results of eight sessions held during the period from February 2008 to December 2009; key lessons learned, including best practices; and the way to build on them for future planning. The representative of the secretariat made a presentation on the intergovernmental structure of the Commission and its subsidiary bodies pursuant to ESCWA resolution 291 (XXV), which requests the secretariat to carry out an in-depth evaluation of the intergovernmental structure of ESCWA in the light of programme priorities, as identified by member countries, and ongoing United Nations reform.

41. The representative of the secretariat indicated the following: (a) the secretariat prepared the terms of reference of the evaluation in accordance with the norms and standards of the United Nations Evaluation Group for the period from January 2004 to June 2009; (b) the evaluation aimed at assessing the effectiveness of the work of the Commission in achieving the expected objectives and results, and at facilitating interaction and coordination on regional priorities and emerging issues, facilitating the follow-up and monitoring of resolutions and recommendations; and (c) future evaluations would address various stakeholders and compile information using different approaches, including by meeting delegation members to gather opinions on the work of the Commission and using an online questionnaire seeking comments on the role of ESCWA as a source of information as well as its role in coordination and follow-up.

42. In the course of the discussion, national delegates highlighted the need to define clearly the role of ESCWA in the region in order to facilitate its evaluation. They stressed the need to involve member countries in all stages of the evaluation, noting the importance of using several methodologies for compiling requisite information for the evaluation, including one on one interviews and group discussions.

43. A representative from a member country expressed satisfaction with the structure and contents of the sample questionnaire that comprises questions on the opinions of parties concerned and member countries on all advisory services provided. However, he suggested making an adjustment to the four answer options provided by adding one corresponding to neutral answers in order to strike a balance between positive and negative answers.

44. In response to comments by national delegates, the secretariat indicated that it would conduct lateral meetings with delegates participating in the session to ask for their opinion on the effectiveness of the work of the Commission, the focus priorities for the next period and the ways to conform the strategy of ESCWA to national requirements. It was agreed that ESCWA would complete the final evaluation report by July 2010, make an estimate of its financial cost and define the ensuing programme amendments and submit it to the Technical Committee for discussion and adoption.

(b) Upgrade the Centre for Women in ESCWA to a division

45. A representative of the secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part I)/B that includes justifications for the adoption of the draft resolution on upgrading the ESCWA Centre for Women to a division, which was prepared by the Committee on Women at its fourth session, and on the need to provide it with the necessary financial and human resources to enable it to undertake effectively its mandate and meet the requirements and aspirations of member countries, pursuant to relevant General Assembly resolutions. The representative of the secretariat indicated that the Centre needed additional resources in order to conduct its work in a timely and effective manner, especially given the growing number of countries that had ratified the Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women or removed their reservation with respect to some of its provisions; the growing number of member countries requesting assistance in implementing international commitments; the need to keep abreast with national, regional and international developments in the area of women advancement and gender equality; and to support national machineries for the advancement of women in their tasks.

46. With regard to the proposed organizational chart for the envisioned division for the advancement of women, the representative of the secretariat indicated that it would comprise two sections, namely: (a) a section for the empowerment of women, which would be responsible for implementing the programmes aimed at empowering women in all fields, particularly women participation in social and political fields in member countries; and (b) a section for gender mainstreaming, which would be responsible for supporting the efforts of member countries in mainstreaming that concept in their national plans and policies, and institutional programmes and structures, as well as in ESCWA.

47. In the course of the discussion, national delegates pointed out the importance of the draft resolution on upgrading the ESCWA Centre for Women to a division by stressing the relevance of the role of that Centre in empowering women in all fields of education, employment, health and participation in public and political life, and stressing also the relevance of the advisory services provided by the Centre which are being required by a growing number of member countries. Delegates underlined the need for the envisioned division to launch initiatives and projects with the private sector and civil society aimed at addressing all aspects of social, economic and political empowerment of women.

48. In response to the comments by national delegates, the secretariat distributed document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part I)/B/Add.1, which clarifies the programme budget implications of upgrading ESCWA Centre for Women to a division, and provides the estimated financial resources needed for the work of the proposed division in the bienniums 2010-2011 and 2012-2013. In that context, the Executive Secretary noted that adopting the draft resolution on upgrading the Centre to a division would not impose additional funds on member countries. Rather it would require support from their representatives at the United Nations to promote this proposed resolution in the budget discussions. He stressed the need for a contribution of the public sector companies and businesses in support of ESCWA extrabudgetary resources, similar to other regional commissions, in order to enable it to conduct projects that benefit the interests of the countries of the region.

(c) Upgrade the Section for Emerging and Conflict-Related Issues to a division and establish an intergovernmental committee concerned with emerging issues and development in times of crisis

49. A representative of the secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part I)/C and noted that the continuing instability, conflict, occupation and their regional spillover effects were the main causes that hampered development in the region. In that context, the Section for Emerging and Conflict-Related Issues (ECRI), which is responsible for the implementation of Subprogramme 7 on Conflict Mitigation and Development in the ESCWA region, has received an increasing number of requests for its services from member countries since its establishment, particularly in the areas of public sector modernization and the formulation of policies, strategies and programmes for mitigating the impact of conflict and its regional spillover effects on socio-economic development in the region.

50. Consequently, the representative of the secretariat indicated that it was necessary to upgrade ECRI to a division and provide the required human and financial resources in order to meet the growing demands of member countries for services provided by the Section. In parallel, the representative of the secretariat noted also the need to establish an intergovernmental committee on emerging issues and development in times of crisis, which was recommended by the Technical Committee at its third meeting (Beirut, 21-22 July 2009).

51. In the course of the discussion, delegates commended the role played by ESCWA in mitigating the impact of conflict on development in the region, and raised questions concerning the terms of reference of the envisioned intergovernmental committee, including the task of monitoring and identifying regional and international challenges that can hinder peace-building and development efforts, and setting up an early warning system. Moreover, some delegates pointed out the overlapping terms of reference of the proposed intergovernmental committee and division. The discussion concluded by stressing the need to adopt the draft resolution on upgrading the Section for Emerging and Conflict-Related Issues to a division and establishing an intergovernmental committee concerned with emerging issues and development in times of crisis, provided that the terms of reference of the committee would be revised.

52. In response to the comments by national delegates, the secretariat explained that it adopted strategies that were adequate to the reality of each conflict and post-conflict affected country. It indicated that the terms of reference of the envisioned committee were formulated on the basis of consultations with member countries, and expressed its readiness to introduce the amendments suggested by national delegates. He added that a revised version would be distributed to them in the course of the session for adoption.

2. Proposed amendments to the programme of work for the biennium 2010-2011

53. Under this sub-item, the secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/26/6(Part II), which contains the proposed amendments to the programme of work for the biennium 2010-2011. The amendments were made pursuant to new mandates entrusted to ESCWA by the General Assembly at its sixty-fourth session, and in accordance with emerging global and regional needs and challenges that have emerged since the Commission adopted the programme of work for the biennium 2010-2011 at its twenty-fifth session.

54. Delegates took note of the amendments and emphasized their relevance to the programme of work in order to correspond to the developments occurring in reality and the amended mandates entrusted to the Commission. They agreed to adopt those amendments in the resolution submitted in that regard.

E. REVISED DRAFT STRATEGIC FRAMEWORK FOR THE BIENNIAUM 2012-2013
(Agenda item 8)

55. Under this sub-item, a representative of the secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/26/7, which contains the revised draft strategic framework for the biennium 2012-2013, and gave a brief on the goals and expected accomplishments of each of the seven subprogrammes.

56. In the course of the discussion, delegates pointed out to the need for advance coordination with member countries on the formulation of the strategic framework, and for expanding the scope of Subprogramme 4 to include, in addition to information and communications technology services, production, adaptation, development and transfer of technology in the ESCWA region.

57. National delegates referred to the importance of clarifying the nature of programmes and activities being prepared in order to achieve the goals envisaged in the strategic framework, thereby developing measurable quantitative and qualitative indicators of achievement for the assessment of progress achieved in realizing each goal.

58. The secretariat indicated that identifying activities and relevant budget resources would take place at a later stage and would subsequently be submitted to member countries for revision and comments.

59. The Commission endorsed the revised draft strategic framework for the biennium 2012-2013.

F. PROGRESS MADE IN THE ESTABLISHMENT OF ESCWA TECHNOLOGY CENTRE
(Agenda item 9)

60. Under this item, the Commission was presented with document E/ESCWA/26/8, which includes the draft resolution on the establishment of ESCWA technology centre and the draft statute of the centre. A representative of the secretariat asked national delegates to review the draft statute with a view to adopting it and, subsequently, concluding a headquarters agreement between the United Nations and Jordan, the host country.

61. In the course of the discussion, national delegates asked questions with regard to the procedures of electing members of the board of governors and appointing the director of the centre, the mission and nature of work of the centre at regional and international levels, and the extent to which it builds on successful similar experiences in other regions.

62. In response to those questions, the representative of the secretariat referred to provisions in the statute by which the executive director would be appointed by the Secretary-General in accordance with United Nations regulations, rules and administrative instructions; and, in turn, the executive director would appoint members of the technical committee that would be established within the centre, in coordination with the Executive Secretary and member countries, as well as the board of governors which would be designated by the Government of Jordan and six additional representatives nominated by other members of ESCWA and elected by the Commission.
63. The representative suggested that member countries could nominate their candidates during the founding stage provided that the election would take place according to the statute of the centre at the twenty-seventh session of the Commission.

64. The Commission took note of the status of the project to establish the centre and approved the proposed draft statute, thereby paving the way for the conclusion of the agreement with the host country.

VI. ORGANIZATION OF WORK

A. DATE AND VENUE

68. The Commission held its twenty-sixth session at the United Nations House in Beirut from 17 to 20 May 2010. It convened seven plenary meetings, during which it discussed its agenda items.

69. Stressing the cultural aspect of its development mission, the Commission inaugurated the ministerial segment with a concert presented by the “Al-Fayhaa” choir, which performed a repertoire of traditional songs and music from different countries.

B. OPENING OF THE SESSION

70. The two-segment session was opened in two stages. The senior officials’ segment was opened on the morning of Monday 17 May 2010, while the ministerial segment was opened on the morning of Wednesday 19 May 2010 at the United Nations House in Beirut.

   1. Senior officials’ segment

71. At the opening of the senior officials’ segment, Mr. Mohammad Ahmed Al-Hawri, Deputy Minister for Economic Studies and Forecasts, Ministry of Planning and International Cooperation in Yemen, which assumed the chairmanship of the twenty-fifth session, made the opening statement in which he commended the success achieved by ESCWA in most of its programmes for the biennium 2008-2009, despite the impact of the global financial crisis on the socio-economic situation in the region. He emphasized the role played by ESCWA in finding creative solutions to address that impact which affects all social and economic sectors.

72. Mr. Badr Omar AlDafa, United Nations Under-Secretary-General and Executive Secretary of ESCWA, made a statement in which he welcomed delegations and stressed the importance of their participation as a confirmation of their commitment to the issues and priorities of the region and the need for joint efforts in order to achieve regional integration. The Executive Secretary stressed the importance of formulating integrated social policies; providing employment opportunities for young people and involving them in development programmes and plans; increasing the participation of women in economic, social and political life; and mitigating the negative effects of inflation and high prices. He affirmed the resolve of ESCWA in strengthening a people-based approach in its endeavour to achieve sustainable economic and social development in the region.

73. Upon the election of Jordan to chair the twenty-sixth session, Ms. Zeina Toukan, Director of International Cooperation at the Ministry of Planning and International Cooperation in Jordan, made a statement in which she indicated that Jordan would spare no effort during its tenure as chair of the twenty-sixth session in working with ESCWA and member countries to pursue the achievements made during the past session, and to present ideas and proposals for enhancing the development mission of the Commission to better serve member countries.

2. Ministerial segment

74. H.E. Mr. Abdel Karim Ismail al-Arhabi, Deputy Prime Minister for Economic Affairs and Minister of Planning and International Cooperation in Yemen, which assumed the chairmanship of the twenty-fifth session of the Commission, made the opening statement of the ministerial segment in which he welcomed the participants. He affirmed the importance of choosing youth development as the main theme of the session, noting that economic and social challenges stemming from the global financial crisis, economic and trade globalization, climate change and lack of security, were all elements that added to the responsibilities of member countries in developing youth, strengthening their capacities and generating employment opportunities for them, in collaboration with international organizations and development partners. He added that human and institutional capacity-building were closely correlated to good governance, sound management, accountability and transparency; and as such were among the main pillars of sustainable development.

75. H.E. Mr. Jaafar Hassan, Minister of Planning and International Cooperation in Jordan, extended his thanks to Yemen for its efforts in assuming its chairmanship of the twenty-fifth session. He stressed the need to work towards intensifying the accomplishments made and adopt measures that contribute to strengthening cooperation among countries of the region and achieving regional cooperation. He underlined the urgent challenges posed by increasing population growth rates and youth unemployment, noting the importance of sound planning with regard to human resources and institutional capacities. In that context, he affirmed the importance of continued development of the education sector and modernization of curricula, producing accurate data, organizing technical training to ensure congruity of education outputs with labour market needs. He highlighted the reforms implemented by Jordan aimed at promoting the role of young people, the large regional projects in the fields of energy, transport and water, the importance of benefiting from successful experiences, forging partnerships and organizing training sessions. He announced that Jordan was looking forward to hosting the ESCWA technology centre to strengthen the technology sector.

76. H.E. Mr. Abdel Rahman Bin Mohammad al-Atiyeh, Secretary-General of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC), made a statement in which he noted the record of achievements of ESCWA in terms of activities since its establishment. He informed participants of the achievements of the GCC in various political, military and environmental areas, in particular with regard to youth and sports. He stressed that the GCC was according great attention to the subject of developing youth and promoting their role, given its direct link to the development process as a whole. He added that GCC member countries had adopted national policies and programmes targeting youth development and empowerment as well as youth employment creation.

77. The Executive Secretary read out a message from the United Nations Secretary-General, Mr. Ban Ki Moon, to the twenty-sixth session of ESCWA. In the message, the Secretary-General noted the importance of meeting at a time of major challenges that continued to threaten the region, including climate change, water scarcity, the food crisis and the recession. He stressed the need to boost decent work for all, foster social inclusion and reduce inequalities. He praised the Commission for choosing youth as a focus topic for policy discussions, which would benefit the wider global dialogue on youth issues that is set to take place on the occasion of the United Nations International Year of Youth starting on 12 August 2010. He also welcomed the focus on human and institutional capacity-building in view of the fact that public sector modernization and administrative reform are central for the attainment of national development goals and for the building of resilient States.

78. The Executive Secretary made a statement in which he welcomed the Speaker of the House of Parliament in Lebanon, H.E. Mr. Nabih Berri, and thanked him for his patronage of the session. He praised ESCWA for continuing to perform its development mission, which is becoming increasingly difficult in the light of severe conditions faced by the countries of the region. He stressed the importance of the roundtable on youth in highlighting the achievements of member countries in integrating youth in the development process; and underlined the need to conduct a constructive critical review of approaches in addressing youth development issues in order to find practical solutions that are compatible with the demographic, social and economic specificities of the region. Additionally, he stressed the importance of addressing the issue of public sector modernization in view of the fact that it is a principal pillar for the achievement of MDGs. He indicated that building and strengthening institutional and human capacities were major factors in terms of improving economic and social performance. He called for peace in all its political, economic and social dimensions on the basis of equitable and comprehensive solutions and self-determination.

79. H.E. Mr. Nabih Berri, Speaker of the House of Parliament in Lebanon, made a statement in which he affirmed the role played by ESCWA in advancing the development process in the region, under the supervision of its Executive Secretary who is known for his adherence to competency. He noted that the Lebanese youth suffered from a lack of employment, which was leading to a continuous drain of competent young human resources. He stressed the need to reduce the political and economic exclusion of youth by formulating comprehensive and integrated strategies targeting youth and based on accurate statistics in order to identify youth priorities and needs, and empower them to participate in the development process and benefit from its dividends. He added that the strategy needed to focus on, among others, bridging the divide between outputs of the educational system and labour market needs through the establishment of high councils for education in the countries of the region, coordinating between governmental and non-governmental parties in addressing youth priorities, introducing reforms to generate employment opportunities for youth, and confronting the immigration of the most educated youth caused by their economic and social marginalization. He concluded by calling on governments to commit to the World Programme of Action for Youth, deliver on their pledges and preserve the invaluable source represented by youth for the advancement of the future of the region and its countries.
