MIPAA Regional Review in the Arab Region Multi-stakeholders dialogue 10 May 2022

Concept Note

I. Background

In the absence of a binding legal instrument governing the rights of older persons, the Madrid International Plan of Action on Ageing (MIPAA) remains the most comprehensive and most specialized international framework on older persons' issues. The plan of action and its declaration were adopted by the Second World Assembly on Ageing in April 2002 in the presence of 162 countries, of which 19 Arab countries¹. The adoption of the action of plan represented a recognition by the international community of the challenges facing older people in a rapidly ageing world and an attempt to seize opportunities associated with the ageing phenomenon. It constituted a turning point in addressing older persons' issues, through adopting a rights-based approach that regarded older persons as active contributors to development with worth utilizing expertise and abilities rather than mere recipients and beneficiaries of social and welfare services.

The plan of action which aims to build a society for all ages where "people everywhere are able to age with security and dignity" consists of 18 issues, 35 objectives, and 239 recommended actions that revolve around 3 main priority directions, namely: (a) older persons and development, including issues of: active participation in society, employment, income security, social protection, access to education and training, migration, intergenerational solidarity, and emergencies; (b) Advancing health and well-being into old age, including issues of: health promotion, universal and equal access to health care services, training of health care professionals, mental health, and disabilities; (c) Ensuring enabling and supportive environments, including issues of housing and the living environment, ageing in place, support for caregivers; protection from abuse and violence, and positive images of ageing.

MIPAA's implementation is appraised every five years through an inclusive and comprehensive process, aimed at monitoring progress, surveying the status of older persons, and identifying emerging priorities.

¹ Arab countries present at the Second World Assembly on ageing were: Algeria, Bahrain, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, , Libya, Mauritania, Morocco, Oman, Palestine, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Tunisia, the Sudan, United Arab Emirates, and Yemen

The UN regional commissions of the United Nations System are mandated to facilitate the regional reviews. In line with the modalities of the fourth review and appraisal of MIPAA (res 2020/8²) issued by the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), ESCWA launched the regional review process in the Arab region.

The fourth MIPAA review and appraisal comes at a critical time for the Arab region. While still being described as youthful populations, most Arab countries have embarked in a rapid demographic change characterized by a steady increase in the number and percentages of older persons. In fact, the number of older persons (65+) in the Arab region has reached 21 million in 2020, and the percentage of older persons in the Arab region is expected to more than double in the next 30 years increasing from around 5% in 2020 to 11% in 2050. In addition, many Arab countries have already started their ageing transition (period during which the percentage of older persons increases from 7 to 14%) and it is projected that by 2035 most Arab countries will have either started or completed their ageing transition. This phenomenon poses an additional challenge for Arab countries to respond to the needs and priorities of their older persons and to protect them from marginalization and exclusion, while also struggling to address the needs of their younger populations..

These demographic shifts are coinciding with significant socio-economic and political challenges that countries across the region are facing today. These challenges were further exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic, which put substantial pressure on both the societies as well as the families to fully and effectively cater for the needs of their older persons. The pandemic also accentuated the inequalities among older persons. The challenges facing ageing and older persons in the region have been highlighted in different regional reviews of global frameworks, including the ICPD regional review, as well as the review of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

Despite some promising policy developments witnessed across Arab countries, including the adoption of the regional Arab Ageing Strategy 2019-2029, as well as the development of older persons policies in a number of Arab countries, older persons continue to be a growing vulnerable group that is facing an increasing risk of being left behind. Large groups of older persons are excluded from social protection platforms, heightening their risk of disease and poverty. Changing social norms as a result of migration, urbanization, and modernization are impacting inter-generational support. Policy making relating to older persons remains fragmented in most Arab countries and do not respond to the needs of older persons today nor prepare for the quickly increasing numbers and proportions of older persons in the near future. The COVID-19 pandemic has further threatened the wellbeing of older persons, especially those in vulnerable situations, and highlighted the urgency of the need for coherent policies that address older person's needs, priorities and specificities.
