Points to address

- What successes have been achieved within the Arab region in integrating gender and water security dimensions?
- Which approaches have been most successful in overcoming the social and cultural inertia around women's engagement?
- What is the role for regional and external organizations in re-shaping the policy landscape?

Enabling Policies for Women as Agents of Change

- How are the approaches to empower women as agents of change broadly viewed in the Arab societies?
- How best can the community level awareness-raising lead to practical information for women?
- How might we scale community-based action to correlate to supportive national and regional policies?
- Which are the most influential organizations in the Arab region?

Awareness Raising at the Community Level

- How can we ensure that the implementation of SDG5 and SDG 6 in the Arab region will produce mutually complementary results?
- What are the most significant roadblocks?
- What are the ways in which UN Member States can be facilitated and supported in achieving greater gender equity in their water policies?
- What are some of the best ways to mobilize resources – financial and technical?

- What are the ingredients for capacity development and supportive initiatives by the international community for ensuring integrated policy formulation and comprehensive SDG implementation?
- Are there elements of gender inclusion in the SDG implementation processes that are unique to the Arab region?
- What are the most effective modalities for engagement of international and UN organizations and agencies in integrated implementation of the SDGs?
