   International Conference on Financing for Development, namely the Addis Ababa Action Agenda and related processes that serve to advance the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. It also highlights the global commitments versus Arab priorities in the area of financing session of the Committee.

   Representatives of member States are invited to take note of these developments and provide guidance for further work.

6. The Arab Financing for Development Scorecard
   (E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/5)

   The secretariat will present the following reports:

   (a) Overall results
       (E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/5(Part I))

       This report presents the Arab Financing for Development Scorecard which is designed as a regional measurement tool and as an analytical compendium to assess progress made in financing for development in the Arab region according to the Addis Ababa Action Agenda. Taking into consideration the cost of conflict and displacement in the region, the Scorecard presents the overall results pertaining to several areas of the Action Agenda: domestic public resources; domestic and international private business and finance; international development cooperation; international trade as an engine for development; and debt and debt sustainability.

Representatives of member States are invited to examine the findings of the Scorecard, endorse its application as a regional tool and support the presentation of its findings to the appropriate United Nations entities.

(b) Domestic and international private business and finance
(E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/5(Part III))

This report maps the landscape of international public and private finance in 2015 (the baseline-year established by the Addis Ababa Action Agenda to monitor the implementation and progress of financing for development). It also provides an analytical assessment (qualitative and quantitative) of the state of private finance in the Arab region, including cross-border flows and the main determinants affecting the mobilization of such finance, taking into account regional contexts and realities as emphasized by the Action Agenda.

Representatives of member States are invited to consider the global and regional trends in domestic and international private business and finance presented in this document and comment thereon.

(c) International development cooperation
(E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/5(Part IV))

This report provides analytical assessments of international development cooperation, including official development assistance and its relationships to humanitarian and in-donor refugee costs. It also provides an analytical mapping of Arab official development assistance inflows and outflows, taking into account regional contexts as prescribed by the Addis Ababa Action Agenda.

Representatives of member States are invited to consider the global and regional trends in development cooperation presented in this document and comment thereon.

(d) International trade as an engine for development
(E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/5(Part V))

This report maps the international trading landscape and corresponding commitments arising from the Addis Ababa Action Agenda and examines whether trade (preferential or non-preferential) has effectively served as an engine for growth and development as stipulated in the Action Agenda. The report highlights the factors that influenced the trade-growth nexus at the global and regional levels. It also examines the trade-led components of the Addis Agenda against the Arab regions' realities and national priorities, to provide an assessment of the net financial flows associated with its trade profile, terms of trade and trade-growth linkages.

Representatives of member States are invited to discuss the findings of the present document and comment thereon.

(e) Debt and debt sustainability
(E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/5(Part VI))

This report looks at the global situation of external debt financing and domestic capital markets and innovative debt instruments. It also reviews regional dynamics of debt and debt sustainability emphasizing the importance of debt crisis prevention, given that decision-making on sovereign borrowing rests with debtor countries themselves. The report also examines whether external debt offers a sustainable means to finance development and whether it should be encouraged at this time in the Arab region.

Representatives of member States are invited to consider the facts presented and issues raised in this document and comment thereon.

7. Financing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in the Arab region

The secretariat will moderate a panel discussion on financing the 2030 Agenda in the Arab region focusing on the following subject:

(a) Domestic resource mobilization by curbing illicit financial flows and trade misinvoicing
(Part discussion)
(E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/6/Panel)

This panel will provide a platform for dialogue between decision-makers and experts regarding the effects of illicit financial flows and trade misinvoicing on the mobilization of domestic resources to implement the 2030 Agenda in the Arab region. The main motives behind illicit financial flows and trade misinvoicing in the Arab region will also be addressed, along with regional estimates of illicit financial flows. The panel aims to support member States’ efforts in implementing their commitments under the Action Agenda to eliminate illicit financial flows by 2030.

The secretariat will also present its findings on the issue of illicit financial flows and trade misinvoicing as reported in the following document:

(b) The Arab Financing for Development Scorecard: domestic public resources
(E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/5(Part II))

This report provides the key findings and conclusions of the first ESCWA report on curbing illicit financial flows and trade misinvoicing to enhance domestic resource mobilization in the Arab region. These flows account for substantial resource leakages in the region. They undermine the rule of law, effective tax administration and revenue collection; distort trade figures and gains from multilateral and preferential trade (trade misinvoicing); and worsen macroeconomic and security conditions (terrorist or conflict financing). The report also highlights the implications of illicit financial flows on the enforcement of regional trade agreements (intra and extraregional) and on the establishment of an Arab customs union by 2021.

Representatives of member States are invited to take note of those findings and make comments thereon.

8. Feasibility of an Arab forum on financing for development
(E/ESCWA/EDID/2017/IG.2/7)

This paper, prepared in response to a request by member States in line with the Doha Declaration on the Implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, looks at the need for a regional platform on mobilizing finance to drive the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in the Arab region, as well as other regional initiatives, including priority areas identified at the Arab Forum on Sustainable Development. It examines the role of various platforms operating in the region and paths followed in other regions to implement the Addis Ababa Action Agenda. It contemplates a range of options for a proposed forum, bearing in mind the concerns and priorities of member States and the need to exploit the flexibility provided by the Action Agenda to pursue a mix of national priorities and regional sustainable development projects.
Representatives of member States are invited to discuss the paper and provide guidance on the proposed forum.

This document presents activities and outputs proposed to be implemented by the secretariat in the biennium 2018-2019 in the field of financing for development under subprogramme 3 on economic development and integration which falls under the responsibility of the Economic Development and Integration Division of ESCWA. The proposed programme of work was prepared in line with the revised strategic framework for the biennium 2018-2019 which was adopted by ESCWA at its twenty-ninth session (Doha, 13-15 December 2016).

Representatives of member States are invited to review the proposed programme of work in the field of financing for development and provide comments and suggestions thereon.
