Acknowledging the efforts of the secretariat to support member countries in their economic and social development endeavours,

1. Reaffirms the importance of the role ESCWA plays as the regional arm of the United Nations in Western Asia, in supporting social and economic cooperation between the countries of the region, and its efforts in promoting the development process in those countries and achieving regional integration;

270 (XXIV). Macroeconomic policy for financial stability

The Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia,

Guided by the Damascus Declaration on the Realization of the Millennium Development Goals adopted by the Commission at its twenty-third session, which affirms the importance of accelerating economic growth and addressing related linkages when formulating strategies to achieve the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs),

Referring to General Assembly resolution 59/222 of 22 December 2004 on the international financial system and development, which underlines the importance of efforts at the national level to increase resilience to financial risk,

Recognizing the increasing importance of the financial sector in the region, where it has contributed to employment creation by financing investment in economic diversification and growth in non-oil sectors,

Stressing that further development of the financial sector is important for investment finance, the retention of young talent and expanding employment creation within the region,

Noting with concern problems associated with financial sector development in facing recent volatility in market behaviour, which may have more serious repercussions for socio-economic development and the realization of MDGs in the ESCWA region,

Aware that, in the past, severe financial instabilities in other regions caused a sharp increase in unemployment and a substantial decrease in real earnings, and widened income inequality,

Satisfied with the macroeconomic policies undertaken by ESCWA member countries with a view to curbing financial speculation within the prevailing policy environment,

1. Urges member countries to take appropriate macroeconomic policy measures and develop regulatory frameworks that will help to stabilize and promote orderly and transparent performance in financial markets;

Requests the secretariat, in cooperation and coordination with the relevant regional and international institutions, to monitor and analyse possible consequences of financial market instability, with a view to identifying and assessing the impact of such events on economic and social development in the region;

3. Also requests the secretariat to undertake regular and timely forecasts and policy analyses of current and emergent macroeconomic trends;

4. Further requests the secretariat to disseminate its forecasts, analyses and macroeconomic policy recommendations to the widest possible audience;

5. Requests the Governments of member countries which have investment funding deficits to improve and streamline their legal and regulatory frameworks with a view to encouraging greater intraregional investment and capital flows;

6. Requests the Governments and private sectors of member countries with surplus capital to raise the level and intensity of investment and capital flows within the region by reducing investment controls and increasing intraregional diversification.

3. Requests the secretariat to follow up implementation of integrated social policies in member countries;

4. Also requests the secretariat to organize an Arab forum for social policies, with the aim of increasing interest in integrated and effective social policies, promoting dialogue and the exchange of views, and strengthening coordination mechanisms and supporting social policies in the Arab region;

5. Requests the Executive Secretary to submit a report on the progress made in implementing this resolution to the Commission at its twenty-fifth session.

278 (XXIV). Increasing the role of women in decision-making with respect to conflict prevention and peace building

The Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia,

Referring further to Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) dated 31 October 2000 concerning women, peace and security, which urges Member States to ensure increased representation of women at all decision-making levels in national, regional and international institutions and mechanisms for the prevention, management and resolution of conflict,

Noting Economic and Social Council resolution 2005/43 dated 26 July 2005 concerning the situation of and assistance to Palestinian women,

Noting also the agreed conclusion of the Commission on the Status of Women at its fiftieth session concerning the equal participation of women and men in decision-making processes at all levels, and its other conclusions on the status of women in areas of war and conflict, including that concerning the situation of Palestinian women,\textsuperscript{27}

Affirming the Beirut Declaration: Arab Women 10 Years after Beijing: Call for Peace, that was adopted by the ESCWA Committee on Women at its second session in July 2004,\textsuperscript{28} which stressed the role of women in strengthening the concepts of peace and dialogue, and the need of Arab women for peace, security and stability, given that the major difficulties they face are occupation, colonization and threats,

Referring to ESCWA resolution 260 (XXIII) dated 12 May 2005 concerning development and regional cooperation under unstable conditions, which requests the Executive Secretary to intensify her endeavours to build capacities and provide the requisite support for the countries of the region that have suffered and continue to suffer from lack of stability, including analytical activities in sustainable economic and social development fields,

Considering that several countries in the ESCWA region have suffered and continue to suffer from lack of stability, because of wars and conflicts and their impact on social and economic conditions,

279 (XXIV). Follow-up to implementation of components of the Integrated Transport System in the Arab Mashreq

The Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia,

Referring to the adoption by ESCWA at its twentieth session in May 1999 of the Agreement on the Integrated Transport System in the Arab Mashreq (ITSAM),

Referring also to the aim of ITSAM, namely, to increase the flow of goods and persons through the borders of the ESCWA region,

Recognizing that the main components for implementation of ITSAM include the improvement of infrastructure, the facilitation of goods and passenger flows through border crossings, the provision of safe transport, the availability of an information system and a methodological framework for the formulation and analysis of policies,

Affirming the importance of activating the national committee on trade and transport facilitation and establishing them in those member countries where they have not yet been set up;

Referring to subsequent resolutions related to the application of certain components of ITSAM and, in particular, resolutions 235 (XXI) of 11 May 2001 concerning adoption of the Agreement on International Roads in the Arab Mashreq; 243 (XXII) of 17 April 2003 concerning adoption of the Agreement on International Railways in the Arab Mashreq; 256 (XXIII) of 12 May 2005 concerning adoption of the Memorandum of Understanding on Maritime Transport Cooperation in the Arab Mashreq; and 265 (XXIII) of 12 May 2005 concerning regional cooperation in the field of road traffic safety,

Referring also to the resolutions adopted by the General Assembly concerning road safety and, in particular, resolution 60/5 of 26 October 2005 on improving global road safety, which welcomed the organization of the first United Nations Global Road Safety Week, to be held in Geneva in April 2007,

Noting with satisfaction the steps that have been taken by some member countries towards applying the plan of action for implementation of the Agreement on International Roads in the Arab Mashreq, particularly on routes M40 (Iraq-Jordan-occupied Palestinian territory-Southern Mediterranean Coast) and M45 (Syrian Arab Republic-Jordan-Saudi Arabia-Yemen), and the steps undertaken to facilitate the passage of goods through borders and, in particular, the formation of national committees for the facilitation of transport and trade,

Referring to the plan of action for implementation of the Agreement on International Railways in the Arab Mashreq which was adopted by the seventh session of the Committee on Transport, held in Beirut from 17 to 19 April 2006,

29 E/ESCWA/GRID/2006/1G.1/3(Part I)/Add.2.
Recognizing that proper implementation of the above-mentioned resolutions and integrated ITSAM activities will contribute to regional integration and the economic development of member countries,

Recognizing also the need to provide the human capacities and sufficient resources to ensure follow-up by ESCWA to the implementation of ITSAM components and the effective participation of member countries in the Global Road Safety Week,

1. Urges member countries to take practical steps to complete implementation of the plan of action for the Agreement on International Roads in the Arab Mashreq\textsuperscript{30} by the time specified;

2. Also urges member countries to initiate the implementation of the plan of action for the Agreement on International Railways in the Arab Mashreq;\textsuperscript{31}

3. Further urges member countries which have not yet appended a final signature to the Memorandum of Understanding on Cooperation in the Field of Maritime Transport in the Arab Mashreq,\textsuperscript{32} deposited an instrument of ratification thereto, or approved or acceded thereto, to do so at the earliest possible opportunity, thereby ensuring that the Memorandum enters into force; and implement and apply its articles at the national and regional levels once the Memorandum enters into force;

4. Requests the secretariat to play a leading role in advocating the issue of road safety in the region, including capacity-building and awareness dissemination, and by coordinating the activities that ESCWA will undertake during Global Road Safety Week;

5. Also requests the secretariat to follow up and submit an annual report to the Committee on Transport on the progress made in the following:

II. ISSUES FOR CONSIDERATION AND DISCUSSION

A. REQUESTS BY STATES MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS AND/OR ITS SPECIALIZED AGENCIES THAT ARE NOT MEMBERS OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COMMISSION FOR WESTERN ASIA (ESCWA) TO PARTICIPATE AS OBSERVERS IN THE TWENTY-FOURTH SESSION OF THE COMMISSION

(Agenda item 5)

4. Requests to participate as observers in the work of the twenty-fourth session were received from four States Members of the United Nations that are not members of ESCWA, namely, Japan, Germany, Morocco and South Korea. Morocco asked to attend all meetings of the session. The Commission approved those requests and agreed to grant Morocco permanent observer status at all ESCWA sessions.

B. POLICY ISSUES IN THE ESCWA REGION

(Agenda item 6)

5. At a round table, the Commission considered this agenda item on the basis of document E/ESCWA/24/4. Three issues constituted the focus of discussion and suggestions.

1. New challenges in the region and their impact on the work of ESCWA

6. A secretariat representative presented this issue on the basis of the report of the High-Level Expert Group Meeting on the Role of ESCWA in Serving its Member Countries to 2010, which appears in document E/ESCWA/24/4 (Part I). Mention was made of the most important recommendations made in the report with respect to the economy, social policies, regional integration, the building of State and civil society institutions, and the media.

7. In the course of the discussion, delegates referred to the need to prepare an attractive investment environment for capital, by providing the political and economic stability necessary for monetary transfers and the requisite infrastructure, and by adopting legislation to protect investment. They underlined the need to facilitate the process of cooperation and integration between the countries of the region, by carrying out studies on possible fields for investment in each country and the requirements for improving the investment climate. Similarly, they stressed that investment should not be linked to Governments, the role of which should be to prepare an environment that would prompt businessmen to attract investment. In that regard, delegates called for encouragement to be given to the establishment of international business councils, in order to make it easier to obtain investment.

8. Delegates stressed the importance of political support for and the involvement of the private sector in social strategies and policies. They suggested that a social contract should be concluded between countries and their citizens, along the lines of similar contracts that had already been adopted by certain countries. Reference was made to the need for the Arab labour-exporting countries to invest heavily in training and skills development, in order to create new Arab markets and retain the opportunities available to them.

9. Delegates called upon ESCWA to establish an observatory to measure social and economic indicators; organize an Arab forum for social policies; and avoid generalizations when putting forward outcomes and solutions in reports, because generalizations bear no relation to the reality in Arab countries as a whole, where problems vary in accordance with the social and economic systems. As a result, different approaches are needed to deal with the issues at stake.
10. Delegates also considered it essential that new mechanisms should be found for supporting the Palestinian people, in view of the fact that its situation was deteriorating on all economic and social levels and, in particular, because of the threats to education, health and other basic services. They proposed that a plan for the activation of Arab economic integration should be adopted, and that the working mechanisms necessary for that purpose should be devised.

2. Facing youth unemployment problems in the ESCWA region

11. Mr. Samir Radwan presented the study on Arab youth employment that is contained in document E/ESCWA/24/4(Part II). He described unemployment in Arab countries and ways of dealing with it, focusing on the fact that the problem manifests itself differently in the various Arab economies. In the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) States, the problem is not a lack of employment, but the fact that the quality of education and training system graduates does not match the needs of the private or public sectors. In densely-populated countries, the problem is a lack of employment and the inability of the economy to generate sufficient numbers of employment opportunities, while in the least-developed countries, the problem is the lack of an organized labour market and the inappropriate nature of the education and training system, caused by local conditions or war. It was stressed that one of the most significant ways of dealing with this problem is to increase levels of growth, particularly in sectors that generate employment opportunities.

12. In the course of the discussion, delegates noted that the way in which the problem of unemployment and its causes is addressed varies from one Arab country to another. They also noted the importance of political rhetoric keeping abreast of executive programmes for dealing with the problem of unemployment, and of achieving a balance between the needs of the labour market and education output. They underlined the importance of finding a real understanding of private sector involvement and of offering that sector certain financial incentives for taking part in reducing the number of those seeking employment.

13. Delegates called for steps to be taken and policies adopted that would prompt employment institutions to develop technology, given its impact on improving the balance between education output and the needs of the labour market. Similarly, they called for the establishment of institutions responsible for training and orientation, with a view to solving the problem of the lack of congruity between education output and the needs of the labour market; vocational training programmes to produce youth with the skills needed by the labour market; and the establishment of labour-intensive productive industries.

14. Reference was made to the need to employ studies that address the phenomenon of unemployment on the basis of the most recent data and information, given the accelerating pace of change, and to analyse market needs with respect to specializations and capacities, in order to acquire familiarity with the needs of the countries that both export and host labour. Delegates called for the formulation of special programmes for the funding of small and medium-sized projects, which are the source of many employment opportunities in Arab countries.

3. Achievement of the Millennium Development Goals in the ESCWA region: the Damascus Declaration

15. A Secretariat representative presented this issue on the basis of document E/ESCWA/24/4(Part III), which includes an evaluation of the progress made towards achieving the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) in the ESCWA region and a comparison between the countries of the Arab region and between the Arab region and other regions.
16. During the discussion, delegates referred to the link between MDGs and poverty, unemployment and youth problems, all of which are the outcome of low levels of development and require an integrated vision of comprehensive development that enjoys the requisite political support. Reference was made to the fact that work to improve MDG indicators in the region and move them forward to the implementation stage would require the putting in place of a detailed framework for execution at the level of the smallest unit of society.

17. Delegates called upon ESCWA, as the regional arm of the United Nations, to provide technical assistance in calculating the cost of achieving MDGs in countries that are unable to realize them. They stressed the importance, in measuring MDGs, of obtaining information from official sources in the countries concerned rather than State sources alone. Similarly, they underlined the importance of studying successful international comprehensive development models and the extent to which they focused on the development of exports and attraction of investment.

18. They were of the view that the empowerment of women, by removing all the obstacles to their progress and providing them with education, was a major factor in achieving MDGs, including the reduction of infant, child and maternal mortality, and improving the status of women and income levels.

19. Responding to the points raised by delegations on the three issues addressed under this item, the Executive Secretary stressed that ESCWA took every care to obtain the data used in its reports and publications from official Government sources. However, the assistance of member countries was necessary in order to obtain the information required.

20. The Executive Secretary noted that, in its studies, ESCWA divides member countries into three groups, in order to avoid generalizations. Those groups are as follow: the GCC States, countries with more diversified economies, and countries with special needs. However, the mandate of the regional commissions included the analysis of the economic and social situations in the region, and it was therefore necessary to give a general picture of those situations, making it inevitable that averages would be affected by the varying levels of the countries concerned. That did not mean that the progress made by some countries was not acknowledged.

21. The Executive Secretary referred to the importance of following a twin track in training and investment between the countries that export labour and those that host it, in order to ensure that both shared the benefits.

C. REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY ON THE ACTIVITIES OF THE COMMISSION
(Agenda item 7)

22. The Commission considered this agenda item as set forth in document E/ESCWA/24/5, which comprises five sub-items.

1. Programme performance report for the biennium 2004-2005

23. Under this item, the secretariat gave a PowerPoint presentation of programme performance, based on document E/ESCWA/24/5(Part I), which sets out the results achieved in the seven subprogrammes and the obstacles and challenges to implementation of the programme of work for the biennium 2004-2005.

24. In the course of the discussion, delegates referred to the importance, in forthcoming reports on programme of work performance, of focusing on and evaluating the impact of ESCWA achievements and the obstacles and challenges ESCWA faces in carrying out its mandate, rather than merely presenting the services that have been provided, and of using data supplied by official sources in member countries rather than by other, secondary sources, in order to avoid discrepancies in figures. They also referred to the need to take into account the change undergone by the concept of development in recent years, incorporate that change into the ESCWA programme of work, and include in future programmes of work training projects or projects relating to countries that participate in ESCWA sessions in the capacity of observer. It was suggested that ESCWA should employ the media in order to publicize its activities in the fields of the eradication of poverty, empowerment of women and employment, as part of a campaign against violence and terrorism. Stress was laid on the need to focus on marketing and promoting the outcomes of vocational and family projects and, in particular, projects that involve rural women. In other words, greater emphasis should be placed on the economic elements of such projects.

25. In replying to the points raised by delegates, the Executive Secretary expressed her satisfaction with their remarks and positive contribution to the discussions, viewing them as an indication of member country interest in ESCWA activities. She referred to the fact that member countries had requested ESCWA to obtain its data from them, and suggested that they should adopt international and institutional methods of collecting statistical data and strengthen their sources of data, in order to ensure that their own data was the principal source of ESCWA data. Otherwise, ESCWA would have to have recourse to other sources, either regional or international, in order to obtain statistical data. The Executive Secretary also suggested that a committee should be set up in order to consider ways of improving statistics in the Arab countries. With respect to training projects, she explained that ESCWA had provided more than four training programmes for women in Iraq, in addition to training programmes for teachers at four universities, who had been invited to ESCWA headquarters because of the difficulty of going to Iraq. She added that ESCWA sends questionnaires to countries at the beginning of each year, with a view to ascertaining their needs in technical fields and providing the necessary regional advisors. She welcomed all the suggestions put forward by member countries and hoped that they would send requests as early as possible, in order to allow ESCWA to send regional advisors to the countries concerned.

26. In the same context, a representative of the secretariat explained that the report before the Commission was a report on programme performance, containing the outcome of Commission work, lessons learned and best practices. Conceding that the report was a summary, he noted that within a few weeks, member countries would be able to obtain further information when the complete report on programme performance was made available on the Internet. With respect to evaluation, he said that every meeting held by the Commission was evaluated as part of outcome management. As for the emphasis placed by delegations on the importance of networking and the exchange of expertise, he said that ESCWA would in future focus on and develop those two fields. He added that ESCWA is working to develop the capacities of national organizations and institutions, at the national level, with a view to achieving their independent sustainability, by organizing workshops and training courses that meet country requirements. Those programmes and courses had been successful at the national, regional and interregional levels.

2. Follow-up to the implementation of the resolutions adopted by the Commission at its twenty-third session

27. Under this item, a secretariat representative presented document E/ESCWA/24/5(Par t II) and summarized the activities that have been undertaken by ESCWA pursuant to those resolutions. He gave the representatives of member countries information on the relevant activities that have been completed and those that are still being carried out.

3. The technical cooperation programme and regional advisory services

28. Under this item, the secretariat gave a PowerPoint presentation of the technical cooperation programme and regional advisory services, based on document E/ESCWA/24/5(Par t III), which includes an overview of the technical cooperation activities carried out by ESCWA with regular budget and extrabudgetary funding.

29. During the discussion, the delegates commented on the need to achieve balance in the provision of technical services, in order to ensure that all countries benefit from them equally. They underlined the need to improve the performance of member countries with respect to economic forecasts at the national level. They also stressed that it was important that the activities of the unit established in order to support regions suffering from wars and conflicts should respect the situation obtaining in each of those regions. Delegates stressed the need to make use of the experience of other organizations and countries and of the special position that ESCWA was in to transfer groundbreaking experiments to member countries, and the importance of information technology and the need to expand its use in Arab countries in a number of ways, including by incorporating the subject into education curriculums. With respect to Palestine, it was suggested that ESCWA should use foreign experts who could enter the Palestinian territory easily, in view of the difficulty Arab consultants had in that respect. It was also suggested that the feasibility should be considered of extending the missions of regional advisors to countries beyond the usual two-week period, which was not sufficient to permit them to learn the circumstances and problems of the country concerned. Reference was made to the need for ESCWA to make all sectors aware of its programmes, activities and services, by contacting the relevant parties. The country concerned should therefore identify the parties with which ESCWA should make contact.

30. In response to the interventions of delegates, the Executive Secretary said that, while all countries benefited equally from regular budget technical cooperation activities, access to extrabudgetary activities was at the request of a country for such services. She confirmed that greater use could be made of the services of the regional advisors and more information made available about the duties that they undertake. She referred to the need to identify consultants resident in Palestine who could be commissioned by ESCWA, in order to avoid the difficulty faced by outside consultants in obtaining entry visas. She also referred to the need to establish an experienced team to consider ways of maximizing the benefit of the services provided by consultants. With respect to the issue of missions, the Executive Secretary explained that the two-week period could be extended in accordance with the need for services.

4. Mobilizing financial resources and funding

31. Under this item the secretariat gave a PowerPoint presentation based on document E/ESCWA/23/5(Part IV), which summarizes the funding plan for several years, pursuant to the provisions of resolution 263 (XXIII) dated 12 May 2005 concerning the promotion of partnership and mobilization of resources.

32. In the course of the discussion, delegates put forward several proposals, including consideration by ESCWA of the feasibility of finding private sector partners in member countries rather than relying solely on States for funding. It was also suggested that ESCWA should wait for responses from member countries with respect to their need for services, which should be distributed between them equally. Reference was made to the possibility of ESCWA using the media to publicize its activities, particularly in such fields as the eradication of poverty, the empowerment of women and employment, as part of the fight against violence and terrorism. Further reference was made to the need to focus on ESCWA programmes and activities rather than comparing them with the resources of the other regional commissions. Another proposal was put forward to the effect that ESCWA human resources should be increased in order to alleviate the need for the mobilization of increased financial resources.

33. The Executive Secretary responded to delegate interventions, explaining that ESCWA was the most recently established regional commission, with many fewer member countries than its counterparts. She said that, while Western countries felt sympathy for and contributed to such other regions as Africa and South Asia, they considered ESCWA an oil-rich region and did not contribute to it. She added that it had been many years since the budget allocated to ESCWA by the United Nations had been increased, and that it had in fact decreased from time to time. That was one of the obstacles that ESCWA had to face.

34. On the same issue, a representative of the secretariat clarified that the regular budget only allowed ESCWA to undertake normative and analytical activities and certain executive field activities. If ESCWA was to be able to undertake practical and executive activities and regional programmes and initiatives that would respond to the demands and needs of member countries, there would have to be regular inflows of financial resources from member countries to ESCWA.

5. Report of the seventh session of the Committee on Transport

35. Under this item, the Commission was presented with document E/ESCWA/GRID/2006/IG.1/4, which comprises the report of the Committee on Transport on its seventh session.

36. During the discussion of the report, and with respect to the workshop on best practices in the field of road safety, it was proposed that the term “best practices” should be replaced by “road safety”, and that where the experiences of countries that had set up road safety commissions had been successful, they should be emulated. The importance of the role of national committees on the facilitation of transport and trade was also discussed, and the question raised of the technical party responsible for links between those committees and their subsidiaries.

37. The Executive Secretary expressed her approval for the change in the title of the workshop, given that its concern was road safety. She stressed that the issue of the facilitation of transport and trade was important albeit, technically, it was a trade and globalization, rather than transport issue. She explained that as far as ESCWA was concerned, that matter was not considered by the transport team, but by the international trade team, which would in the near future be working with those responsible for the issue in member countries.

38. The Commission adopted the recommendations made in the report of the Committee on Transport, with the exception of any that conflicted with resolutions and recommendations of the current ESCWA session.

D. MANAGEMENT ISSUES
(Agenda item 8)

39. The Commission considered this agenda item on the basis of document E/ESCWA/24/6, which comprises three sub-items.

1. Streamlining the work of the Commission

40. Under this item, the representative of the secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/24/6(Part I) which comprises two sub-items:

(a) Consideration of the Statistics Programme

41. The secretariat representative reviewed the changes that were made to the ESCWA statistics programme as a result of the restructuring of the Commission in 2003, the review that was conducted by the Office of Internal Oversight Services, and the internal evaluation that was carried out by ESCWA. The secretariat explained that the statistical aspects of its work had been incorporated into the substantive aspects, with a view to developing and coordinating statistics in member countries and avoiding the duplication of statistics and indicators, as member countries had requested.

42. During the discussion, certain delegations expressed the view that the abolition of the Statistics Division had weakened statistical work with respect to the relationship and synergy with member countries. They thought it best that the Division should be re-established and supported with sufficient financial and human resources, given that there had to be a central body that could standardize statistical concepts and classifications and adopt statistical methodologies as appropriate to the particularities of ESCWA member countries.

43. Delegates referred to the need to focus on gender-disaggregated statistics and for a complete separation between the collection and analysis of data. They underlined the importance of precise and standardized statistics in implementing all development programmes and monitoring MDG achievement.

44. Delegates also referred to the need to evaluate the needs of member countries in various fields relating to the collection of data and dissemination thereof by electronic means; national accounts; and the modern methods employed in that context. They stressed the importance for that purpose of coordination between the ESCWA Statistics Division and the central statistics bodies of member countries.

45. In her response, the Executive Secretary said that when the Commission was restructured, member countries had agreed that the Statistics Division should be incorporated into the technical divisions. The fact that Statistics Division staff had been moved to the technical divisions had not been prejudicial to their statistical work but had, on the contrary, helped to standardize and coordinate the data issued by those divisions. She stressed that the statistics-related subprogramme had remained separate from other ESCWA programmes and that its resources had not been redistributed following decentralization. She said that it was the responsibility of the Secretary-General of the United Nations to determine the administrative and staffing structure of the secretariat, and explained that the re-establishment of the Statistics Division would require an administrative position at a certain level that was not included in the current ESCWA budget, for which provision would have to be made in the forthcoming budget. The Executive Secretary affirmed that the secretariat would take into consideration all the directives of member countries and that the re-establishment of the Statistics Division had in fact been proposed in the budget for the biennium 2008-2009.

(b) Consideration of ESCWA intergovernmental machinery

46. A representative of the secretariat gave a PowerPoint presentation that covered the outcome of the comprehensive evaluation of ESCWA intergovernmental machinery that had been carried out in accordance with the recommendation made by the Office of Internal Oversight Services as part of the United Nations reform process, whereby all mandates that have been established for more than five years must be reviewed. He explained that the secretariat would prepare a methodology and plan of action for ESCWA intergovernmental machinery, in consultation with the advisory body, with a view to determining the best structure for strengthening links between the various programmes and activities, and would focus on issues which had priority in the region. It would also determine the ideal frequency with which intergovernmental committees should meet. The plan of action would be submitted to the Commission at its twenty-fifth session.

47. In the course of the discussion, delegates called for the establishment of a technical committee comprising the focal points of member countries, which would meet once every six months in order to follow up implementation of the ESCWA programme of work and assist in requesting funding for proposed projects. They also called for the activation of the subsidiary institutions, saying that a lengthy interval between their sessions should be avoided. Specialized working groups should be established for specific periods, with responsibility for addressing certain issues. Delegates underlined the need for an interchange between member countries of expertise and best practices in the fields of organization and administrative performance.

48. The secretariat welcomed the suggestion that a technical committee should be established with responsibility for ensuring direct and continual communication between ESCWA and member countries, on condition that member countries should bear the cost of that committee’s meetings, which were not provided for in the current budget.

49. Accordingly, the Commission decided to form a technical committee comprising senior officials from member countries, to meet once every six months at ESCWA headquarters in order to follow up implementation of programme activities and support ESCWA in achieving its aims. The committee would have no budget implications. The secretariat would prepare an agenda and issue invitations to the meeting.

2. Proposed programme changes for the biennium 2006-2007

50. Under this item, the representative of the secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/24/6(Part II), which contains the amendments to the programme of work for the biennium 2006-2007 that have been proposed in the light of unforeseen issues at the regional and global levels, including the main concerns and priorities of the 2005 World Summit Outcome.

52. Under this item, the representative of the secretariat presented document E/ESCWA/24/6(Part III), which contains the draft strategic framework for the biennium 2008-2009 and an overview of the goals and expected achievements of each of the seven subprogrammes.

53. In the course of the discussion, delegates referred to the important initiative taken by ESCWA in implementing the programmes and informing member countries of the assistance with which it could provide them. They stressed the importance of establishing an ESCWA technology centre.

54. Delegates also stressed the importance of strengthening and developing interregional trade and of accelerating the establishment of the Greater Arab Free Trade Area (GAFTA). They requested that a study should be carried out of the obstacles to such trade and that member countries should be assisted in the matter of becoming members of the World Trade Organization (WTO). They further called for a common policy to be formulated by member countries with respect to energy pricing.

55. In her response to the remarks of the delegates, the Executive Secretary stressed that ESCWA would cooperate with the council of Arab economic unity, which had been given responsibility for establishing GAFTA. The secretariat asked GCC States to inform it of all recent and innovative achievements, that could then be publicized in member countries, all of which could benefit therefrom.

E. REVIEW OF PROGRESS MADE BY YEMEN IN THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE PROGRAMME OF ACTION FOR THE LEAST DEVELOPED COUNTRIES FOR THE DECADE 2001-2010
(Agenda item 9)

57. Under this item, a representative of the secretariat gave a PowerPoint presentation based on document E/ESCWA/24/7, focusing on the most prominent economic and social developments that had taken place in Yemen over the past five years and the development policies that had been adopted with a view to carrying out the undertakings made with respect to the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the decade 2001-2010.

58. In the course of the discussion, some delegates questioned the reliability of the data in the study, underlining the need to consult the country concerned when reports on it were being prepared. Some delegates pointed out that the study did not show the assistance given to Yemen by the Gulf States, while others suggested that programmes should be adopted that provided alternatives to the cultivation of qat.

59. Delegates noted that the development assistance received by Yemen is less than that enjoyed by other least developed countries (LDCs), and that international support was of a political nature and subject to the strategies and visions of the donor country. Clear and workable projects and programmes must be adopted in order to attract assistance from donor countries. Delegates stressed that the international community must honour its commitment to assist LDCs, in accordance with the recommendations made by the relevant international summit conferences.

60. In replying to the delegates' observations, the secretariat representative stressed that the study was not an analytical study, but a report that had been prepared in accordance with an outline that had been determined by the United Nations Secretariat. The data it contained had been provided by official sources in Yemen.

IV. ADOPTION OF THE REPORT OF THE COMMISSION ON ITS TWENTY-FOURTH SESSION

63. At its plenary closing session, held on 11 May 2006, the Commission adopted the draft report on its twenty-fourth session, on the understanding that the agreed amendments would be incorporated therein.

V. ORGANIZATION OF WORK

A. DATE AND VENUE

64. The Commission held its twenty-fourth session in Beirut from 8 to 11 May 2006. The Commission convened seven plenary meetings, during which it discussed the items on its agenda.
65. The session was opened in two stages. The first opening, for senior officials, took place on the morning of Monday, 8 May 2006, while the ministerial segment was opened on the morning of Wednesday 10 May 2006 at United Nations House in Beirut.

66. At the first opening, Mr. Ahmad Asghar, Deputy Head of the State Planning Commission for Human Development Affairs of the Syrian Arab Republic, made a statement on behalf of the Chairman of the twenty-third ESCWA session. He noted that the issues on the session agenda represented national and regional priorities which United Nations organizations are working to help achieve. He stressed that the most important requirement for achieving perceptible development progress was effective cooperation between ESCWA member countries and between those and other countries in economic, political and cultural fields, and a general climate of security and peace in the region and the whole world. He stressed the need for the role of the United Nations to be strengthened with respect to its sponsorship of such cooperation and the establishment of security and a just peace in the region and the world, because of the influence it had on the achievement of economic and social development needs.

67. The Executive Secretary of ESCWA then made a statement in which she welcomed delegations and commended their effective participation and tireless endeavours to ensure the success of the session. She reviewed the pressing issues that would be addressed by the Commission at the session, including the United Nations reform process, its impact on the regional commissions and their role therein, the problem of youth unemployment, and the progress made towards achieving MDGs. She referred to the management and organizational issues to be considered, including the proposed changes to the programme of work for the biennium 2006-2007, the draft strategic framework for the biennium 2008-2009, the institutional structure, and the frequency with which ESCWA intergovernmental committees met, in accordance with the outcome of the United Nations reform process and the expected changes in its work priorities. The Executive Secretary referred to the new unit that had been established by ESCWA in order to support countries suffering from war and armed conflict, and expressed the hope that member countries would support the establishment of the two centres for technology and water which ESCWA intended to set up, and would be prepared to host them, in support of regional cooperation and integration.

2. Ministerial segment

68. The ministerial segment of the session was opened by Mr. Khaled Al-Qusaibi, Minister of Economy and Planning of Saudi Arabia, and Chairman of the twenty-fourth ESCWA session. He commended the efforts made by ESCWA through its activities to serve the countries of the region and referred to the rapid economic and social changes that were taking place in the region and the world, which included challenges and opportunities that must be dealt with through development and national and Arab advancement. He affirmed the need to intensify the implementation of social policies that recognized the various aspects of national and regional challenges, including illiteracy, poverty, unemployment and MDG-related fields. He enumerated the most urgent economic issues, namely, the generation of employment opportunities, economic diversification, technology adaptation and the improvement of public administration.

69. The Executive Secretary read out a message from the United Nations Secretary-General, Mr. Kofi Annan, to the twenty-fourth session, in which he greeted session participants and noted that ESCWA sessions constituted an important mechanism for consolidating regional cooperation. That cooperation, and economic integration, represented a strategy of the utmost importance in addressing the effects of the political conflicts and turmoil from which the region suffered. He made particular reference to poverty and unemployment. He expressed his readiness to work with the Commission in meeting the needs of the region and keeping abreast of the changing challenges of the age. The Secretary-General wished participants every success at the meeting.

70. The Executive Secretary made a statement at the opening of the ministerial segment in which she thanked the Speaker of the Chamber of Deputies of Lebanon, Mr. Nabih Berri, for sponsoring the session. She referred to the political and security upheavals from which the region is suffering and their impact on development, as well as the changes that are taking place at the economic level. She underlined the need for sources of income to be diversified, for the revenue from the new oil bonanza to be used in productive fields and for emphasis to be placed on the strengthening of the knowledge-based economy. At the social level, she noted that, while the region had made progress in education and health, much remained to be done in order to reduce poverty and unemployment and strengthen the participation of women in economic and political life. The Executive Secretary concluded her statement by renewing ESCWA’s commitment to Arab regional issues and to continue its efforts to achieve progress, sustainable development and advancement, whatever the challenges might be.

71. Mr. Abdul Rahman bin Hamad Al-Attiyah, Secretary-General of GCC, made a statement in which he began by thanking the Executive Secretary and her staff for their efforts to serve the region. He discussed the views held by GCC on certain of the issues to be discussed, including the progress made in the region towards achieving MDGs. He noted that the Arab region continues to face major challenges to achieving those Goals, and said that regional integration is one of the most important means of confronting those challenges. In that context, he cited the experience of GCC in uncovering the hidden benefits of cooperation, coordination and integration, and the strengthening of joint working mechanisms in the ESCWA region. He reviewed the stages through which the GCC had passed in the course of its integration experiment, from the establishment of the free trade area in 1983 to the monetary union and the launch of the single currency in 2010, and other integration projects. He said that there could be no democracy without real development in all economic and social fields and that there could be no political freedom unless the most pressing social issues were addressed.

72. Mr. Nabih Berri, sponsor of the session and Speaker of the Chamber of Deputies of Lebanon, made a statement in which he thanked the Executive Secretary for the support for Lebanon and its stability that had been demonstrated by the United Nations continuing its work in the country, its concern for the reconstruction and development of south Lebanon and the award to Lebanon of a Special Citation of the UN-HABITAT Scroll of Honour. He noted the importance of the issues on the agenda, and the need to re-formulate reform programmes to include sustainable development concepts, to evaluate Government policies and their impact on the environment, and to link Government reform measures with MDGs. He mentioned the issue of youth unemployment and the size of that problem in the region, underlining the need for United Nations expertise in generating employment opportunities. He also addressed the oppressive challenges faced by the region, including organized and constantly changing forms of terrorism that affected many parts of the region, which must be dealt with by a united international front and represented one of the challenges to ESCWA. He affirmed that the holding of the session in Beirut was an expression of confidence in the stability of the public system in Lebanon.

C. Participation

73. The session was attended by representatives of the 13 ESCWA member countries and, in the capacity of observers, representatives of other States Members of the United Nations non-members of ESCWA. Other observers included representatives of United Nations programmes, bodies and institutions; representatives of international organizations, non-governmental organizations and other organizations; and a number of experts.
